

2008 Paleontology Summer Internships

The Division of Paleontology at the American Museum of Natural History is offering a small number of full-time, 8-week internships for graduate or undergraduate students in paleontology, life sciences, museum studies, or related fields (June 30 start). The interns will participate in an NSF-funded project to upgrade the fossil mammal collections at AMNH. Details of the project can be found on the Division of Paleontology website via the following link:

<http://paleo.amnh.org/projects/ProjectFMPeris.htm>

The interns will work with collection management, preparation, and conservation staff to carry out collection inventories; construct archival quality housings for specimens and associated labels; georeference specimen localities; and upgrade on-line collections data.

A stipend will be provided as support over the internship period. Interested parties should email a CV and cover letter to be received no later than March 28, 2008 to:

Dr Christopher A. Norris
Director of Collections & Archives
Division of Paleontology
e-mail: Norris@amnh.org